

NOW LOOKING
FOR PEACEAll Sides in Cuba are Now Expecting War to CeasePending Deliberation of Peace
Delegates Both Sides are Resting on their Arms

Havana, Sept. 6.—Peace is in the air and on all sides today there is hope that matters will be arranged between the government and the insurgents. However, there has been no tangible advance toward an agreement or even negotiation. But fighting has been practically suspended. Delegates informally chosen by a small group of veterans have started to the camps of Pino Guerra, Colonel Asbert, General Guzman and other insurgent leaders to learn what will be acceptable to the fighting leaders of the revolution. A similar committee started for Cienfuegos to consult with insurgents in Santa Clara province. Late this afternoon General Menocal, General Cebeco and other veterans held a conference with Alfredo Zayas, leader of the Liberal party, which did not result in an understanding. At the same time the executive committee of the Moderate party held a conference at which peace was excitedly discussed.

The Associated Press is informed, although the fact has not been made public, that the government commanders have been directed to suspend active field operations until it can be determined what can be done to end the war. The propositions which the promoters of the peace movement have in mind are, generally speaking, those already noted by the Associated Press and include a special session of congress to pass acts of amnesty, for the holding of municipal elections within sixty days, and a new general election law providing for minority representation in all branches of the national and municipal governments. These propositions seem to appeal to the public, although Liberals are inclined to demand also the resignation of all high officials, including the president and members of the cabinet, which the government of course never can consider. It is feared that the demands of the insurgent leaders in the field will be much more exacting than those of insurgent sympathizers in the cities.

In the conference yesterday afternoon Senator Zayas rather enigmatically said that while he was desirous of assisting the peace movement, he could not use his influence unless it was to be either a temporary peace with an opportunity to arrange details later or a peace procured at all cost. He said that the whole matter is a political question which had taken the form of an armed protest and that it must be treated as such. He called attention to the willingness of the Liberal senators and representatives, even those who were not elected at the last election, to resign if their opponents would do likewise, and make an appeal to the country.

HIS FIRST WIFE
HIRED AS COOKWoman Cooked Wedding Supper
for Her Successful Rival and Will Remain.

A marriage ceremony which was performed in Danville, Virginia, Wednesday, has caused considerable gossip among the circle in which the principal parties moved. John C. Putner and Lillian Skipton, the latter a pretty school teacher, were the contracting parties.

Putner some time ago obtained a divorce from his first wife and later employed her as cook. He took his second wife to his home in which the first wife will remain as cook. She made the wedding cake and cooked the wedding supper for her more successful rival.

More than one-fifth of the land surface of the globe is under English rule.

PROF. WILLIAMS TO SPEAK AT TERRE HAUTE

Prof. Jas H Williams, principal of Washington school (colored), has been procured to deliver an oration in Terre Haute, Sept. 22d, the occasion being a celebration of emancipation. There is a general movement among the colored people to celebrate important dates in their history, and on such occasions, they employ their best speakers. The frequency of the employment of Prof. Williams on such occasions is a high compliment to his ability. He spoke on similar occasions last year, twice in Indianapolis and once in Marion, Shelbyville, Connorsville, Carthage, Muncie and Anderson. He is a speaker of much ability and deserves to succeed.

ALL MAYORS
STILL ALIVEThree Ex-Mayors Meet on the Street and Discovery is Made

Ex-mayor F. J. Hall and Squire W. T. Jackson were standing upon the sidewalk talking this morning when John M. Stevens came up.

"You're now an ex-mayor," said the latter addressing Mr. Hall.

"Yes," was the reply, "but there are others."

It was discovered that all three of the men present were ex-mayors, and when they had gone deeper into the ex-mayor question, it was found that every mayor that Rushville ever had is still alive.

"The first mayor was elected in 1882, when the town became a city," said Mr. Stevens. "Rushville at that time had a population of about 2500. There were no politics practically in the first election, George H. Puntenev, being elected unanimously. Mr. Puntenev was followed by Sox Hill-goss, and he by W. T. Jackson, who in turn was followed by J. M. Frazee, J. A. Armstrong, myself and F. J. Hall. All of the mayors are still living, and all are living in Rushville except Messrs. Frazee and Armstrong."

WATSON IS A
VERY BUSY MANUp to His Neck in Correspondence—Will Speak at Philadelphia

Since his return from his speaking tour of Maine with Uncle Joe Cannon, Congressman Watson has been a very busy man. All day yesterday and this forenoon he was buried in a huge mass of mail, opening letters, filing them, marking them for replies and making note of the demands that they contained. Mr. Watson has been keeping two stenographers busy taking dictations and answering the many letters that he has received.

"I'm head over heels into it," said Mr. Watson this morning, as he ripped open an envelope, pulled out a letter, opened it, glanced over its contents, marked and filed it, placed the pencil over an ear, and jammed his hand into his massive brown locks. "I feel like taking to the woods. I came down the back way to the office this morning on purpose to get down to work as soon as possible, and when I came into the office I found plenty to do."

Between ripping open envelopes, marking and filing letters and dictating answers Mr. Watson managed to find time enough to divulge that he is to open the campaign next Wednesday evening at Philadelphia. Mr. Watson will be the only orator upon that occasion. "When I get done with them," said he with a smile, "they won't want to hear any more from me nor anyone else."

VISITS SCENE
OF MURDERAd. V. Spivey's Impressions
Regarding Killing of Sarah SchafferTanksley Released on Bond—
Cab With Blood Marks
Still in the Shed.

Ad V. Spivey, of this city, who travels over the State for the A. Buch & Sons Company of Pittsburgh, writes the Republican from Bedford his impressions of the murder of Sarah Schaffer, one of the most mysterious crimes in history. Mr. Spivey says:

"Much has been printed concerning the Schaffer murder case, and today another incident of the case was closed. Tanksley, the party who was recently arrested at Evansville, where he was found living with Nellie Rainey in unlawful cohabitation is out on a $500 bond and the only charge against him is wife desertion. His tools were turned over to him this afternoon and he went to work in one of the stone quarries near here. Not one person in 500 think he knows anything about the Schaffer murder."

"He is an ordinary looking man of no special faculty either in looks or intelligence to class him any more than hundreds of stone cutters who work in quarries near here, and he rather seems to enjoy the notoriety he has gained and does not seem to have any fear of anything except the brawn and hard fists of Nellie Rainey's brother."

"In the case of Nellie Rainey it approaches near tragedy. She has rather a good intelligent look, but shows plainly the life and cruel treatment she has led for the past year. She was the idol of her old father and her muscular brothers and when she wanted to go to State Normal the hard earned dollars of the loving brothers were at her disposal, but she did not continue long at school as Tanksley, as later developments show, had led her astray, and finally eloped with her and he will have to keep clear of the Rainey boys or there will be short time justice meted out to him."

"As I gazed on the parties today in the court room no one could have helped having sympathy for the old father and his wayward girl. The only point against Tanksley at all concerning the Schaffer murder is, Prosecutor Fletcher says, in the letter Tanksley wrote to Nellie Rainey to meet him at this place at the same hour the murder was committed and that would be a strong point, as it would be an unusual place for anyone to have a meeting of that kind when a hundred more secluded places abound. But Tanksley says no such letter can be produced and the general impression is that the prosecutor has given out some very bombastic statements."

"The spot at which Sarah C. Schaffer was attacked is a very public one, three and one-half blocks from the public square at a point where it seems impossible that some one, at that hour, in the home of Capt. Cook did not see them, as you can almost reach the door bell of his residence while standing in the alley down which she must have been dragged to the cab shed eighty-five feet away."

The lot north of the alley is a vacant one, but when you trace her journey from her boarding house going to her room, it was the only place she could have been attacked without surely being seen."

"That it was a premeditated murder no one of the many good citizens of Bedford doubt in the least, and they feel deeply the disgrace it has brought upon the city and the many forces of detectives and officer have added to the keenness of their humiliation and this last move has aroused them very much. The spirit of Sarah Schaffer seems to live and stalk the streets of Bedford calling for revenge and no place can you go that the case is not yet discussed, although two and one-half years have passed and nine out of ten people feel that the guilty parties are yet in Bedford occupying places in society and church and of high character.

"The public mind has settled on this, and it will take evidence to eradicate it. This was not the crime of any common tramp or ignorant stone cutter, but planned by a keen intellect and parties high in social life and thus it will stand in the public mind until the truth of the old adage comes, 'murder will out.'"

AD. SPIVEY.

NO MORE AUTOMOBILES
SAYS MAN FROM SHELBY

Returning from Franklin Tuesday night in his 50-horse-power Haynes touring car, after having knocked out two tires on the trip, Frank G. Clark, of Shelbyville, said to William Coulter, "Give me $1000 for that machine." Coulter sat down and quietly wrote out a check for $1000. Clark took the check and hurried away as fast as possible. Next morning he hurried to the bank to cash the check for fear Coulter would go back on the bargain. Clark insists that his machine has cost him $25 per day for each day he has run it besides the original cost of $3200.

About twenty-five Rushville people went to Shelbyville today to attend the fair.

About thirty Rushville people went to Connersville on the noon train today to attend the fair.

Nine of sixteen guests at a party at the home of Otto Montgomery, in Charlottesville, were poisoned Tuesday evening by eating ice cream made at home. All the victims have recovered except Mrs. Montgomery, who is reported to be in a critical condition.

J. H. Ball, of Highland Stock Farm, one mile north of Rushville, will have a sale on October 10th, when he will sell some fine short-horn cattle, Poland-China hogs and Shropshire sheep. Those in need of breeding stock of both sexes will do well to wait and attend this sale. For catalogues address Mr. Ball on rural route 9.

J. M. Pitts, of the Blue River neighborhood, has put up his third crop of alfalfa this season, and expects to harvest another crop before frost. Mr. Pitts is highly pleased with alfalfa, not alone on account of its prolific growth, but for its splendid feeding qualities.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hogsett have received a letter from their son and daughter, John Hogsett and Miss Alicia, who went to Phoenix, Ariz., recently. The former is employed with Dorris & Co., furniture dealers. The latter has taken a position as bookkeeper with Dorris & Hemenway, grocers at Phoenix. Both are well pleased with their new location. They are boarding with their aunt, Mrs. S. E. Hogsett. The letter states that Charles Hudson, of this city, who accompanied them, has been offered several good positions.

The young men who have enlisted in the company of State Guards which is being organized here, will not drill tomorrow night as intended in order to allow the men time in which to see more young men and enlist the remaining seven men who are needed to fill the company. Those who are endeavoring to organize the company have had an opportunity to study the young men of the city. Out of the 112 who applied to the Adjutant General for the organization of a company here only 33 enlisted. With the thousand or more available young men that there are in Rush county it would seem that there ought to be no trouble in getting a company of 62 men in Rushville. There is a mistaken prejudice against State troops, however, that is hard to deal with.

Season Here.

George Steele, the well known foot ball star and full back on the Indiana University team, is in the city visiting Eugene Miller, who is also a student at the University.

"Indiana can be counted upon for great things in foot ball this season," said Mr. Steele. "Although we have lost two of our '04 men, Davis and Payne, both guards, the former leaving college and the latter going to Minnesota, we will be able to recruit good men from the freshman team. The prospects are good for an excellent team at the University this year. Most of the men are old men at the game. Mendenhall an 03 guard, weighing 210 pounds and with a record in the 100 yard dash in 10 1/2 seconds, has returned to school and will be with the team again this year."

Mr. Steele expects to go to Bloomington tonight or tomorrow to begin dieting and training for the foot ball season.

RUSHVILLE, IND., SEPT. 6, 1906

Colonel Bryan's plan of government ownership of State lines, is a most remarkable proposal. More than forty systems of railway management, no one of which would extend the length of an American journey, would certainly make an interesting situation for the traveling public. Mr. Bryan has gone to strange lengths in trying to render consistent the old Democratic doctrine of States' rights and the plan of governmental centralization he seeks to import from Europe.

Commenting on the fact that the special committee which has been investigating the accounts of the State auditor's office has compelled the restitution of $23,000 paid by insurance companies during the administration of State Auditor Rice, a Democrat, which failed to reach the State treasurer, some of our Democratic exchanges are crying: "Turn the Republicans out." The recovery of that much money, belonging to the people, but which some way got lost in the shuffle during a Democratic administration, would hardly seem to afford sufficient excuse for such a proceeding.

A vigorous kick, and a just one, comes from the Evansville Economist, a Republican paper, which comments on the $20,000,000 deficit in the rural free delivery section of the postal department, and lays the blame on the politicians who assist in circulating publications contrary to the rule and regulations of the postoffice department, and thereby discriminate against the little local papers—papers that are entitled to the patronage of the party, and especially the candidates of the party in their own counties respectively. It instances the method pursued to circulate the Lincoln League Journal of Indianapolis, the circulation manager of which "worked" Rushville for over a week. The Economist concludes its column article thus:

"It is not very encouraging to the little Republican papers over the State to have their local leaders and candidates pay for the circulating of an Indianapolis publication in their midst, and give them the cold shoulder. The whole tendency of party politics of late years has been to discourage the little newspapers all over the country, and it is a good time for these small publications to be independent and self-reliant."

In the election of 1906, as in all elections, there are always a great many first voters, voters who have never before appeared at the ballot box. It behooves these first voters to give this matter careful thought and when they exercise the right to vote—the great privilege of an American citizen—that they cast their first vote intelligently. A young voter is generally influenced in politics by family environment, but many of the ancestral political impressions, influences and traditions are effaced. Especially and happily is this of prejudices and outworn grudges. A man of 40 has no personal recollection of the Civil war, the greatest political chapter in the history of the country during the last century. Few first voters can be swayed by any transmitted bitterness of that struggle. They are confronted by live questions that enter into their present and future interests and activities. The dominant party has been in national control nearly all the time for forty-five years. It is in charge of all branches of the government at this time. For the young voter the main issue is: Shall the Republican party be deprived of its present legislative power? Shall its policies be condemned and reversed? Shall its record of performance be condemned, and the reins of authority be handed to some other party, or the wheels be blocked? There will be a legislative deadlock if the house elected this fall has an opposition majority.

THE PLAN OF CAMPAIGN

Was Outlined at Meeting of State Central Committee.

Indianapolis, Ind., September 6.—The Republican state central committee met at the state headquarters in Indianapolis yesterday to discuss the plans for the coming state campaign. Only three members of the committee failed to appear. They were Marion Evans of Marion, committeeman from the Eleventh district; John L. Moorman of Knox, chairman of the Eleventh, and Joseph Barr of Bruceville, chairman of the Second. The other committeemen arrived early in the day ready for the work on hand. A general outline of the campaign does not display any very startling issues. The endorsement of the presidential administration will take a very prominent place in the talk that the spellbinders will pour into the listening ear of the voters. This will include, of course, besides the endorsement of Mr. Roosevelt, an endorsement of the work of congress. The railroad rate bill, the pure food bill, and the meat inspection law will receive a good deal of attention. It will be pointed out that the food bill was passed largely through the energy of the present congress when it had been repeatedly side-stepped for a number of years, through the machinations of the interests against which it was aimed. "Trust busting" will also have its share in the spellbinders' arguments. National issues are always safe, of course, and so it is to be expected that they will have a pretty prominent place in the work, but they will not be the whole show. The state has some very lively issues of its own and the real work, after the eagle has soared sufficiently and the orators are ready to come down to brass tacks, will be on the questions that have arisen inside the borders of Indiana. The law enforcement policy of Governor Hanly which has been the downfall of two state officers is going to be talked of here and there. Then, too, the fact that the national chairman of the Democratic party is president of a hotel company charged with operating a gambling house will not be allowed to escape the attention of the people. The general conditions in the various districts of the state were freely discussed and organization was a cardinal point in the discussion. The labor proposition was one that received some consideration, but the committee feels disposed to wait until the attack is made on certain specific congressmen. Then the committee will see what can be done toward re-electing those congressmen. Tariff will not form a very important item in the list the spellbinder will study. "We will stand pat in Indiana, but we will not do it noisily, vehemently or obnoxiously," they say. In short, the general plan of the campaign might be said to be national issues leading in congressional campaigns; state issues, to elect the state ticket.

United States Senator Hemenway was among the visitors at the meeting of the Republican state central committee here yesterday. Mr. Hemenway arrived early and was at the state headquarters during the morning. He went into consultation with Chairman James P. Goodrich. Mr. Hemenway's presence was the cause of considerable discussion of the conditions in the First Indiana district, among the politicians assembled at the state headquarters. In that district the fight between Senator Hemenway, working for the re-election of Congressman Foster, and G. V. Menzies, Democratic candidate for congress, has proved of special interest here. The fact that Major Menzies has been making it pretty warm for the junior senator has caused considerable comment. "It is more quiet in the First than it has been for some time," Mr. Hemenway remarked. Jas. E. Watson, congressman from the Sixth district, and whip of the house, was a visitor at headquarters during the morning. Mr. Watson has just returned from an Eastern trip. He has been delivering some speeches in the Maine campaign. Governor Hanly was not at the hotel during the day. He has gone to New York to attend a meeting of the international policy holders' committee, and he goes from there to Maine to help in the campaign. Other state officers and attaches from the statehouse, however, dropped over to the committee rooms to get in on the interchange of opinion and counsel.

The executive committee of the Republican state central committee held a meeting last evening. The time was for the most part taken up with a discussion of the various details of the organization of the state campaign. There is considerable detail work that has to be attended and the committee is preparing for this work. The members of the executive committee were in the city early in the day and talked with the members of the state committee relative to the work of the coming campaign.

HOW TO GET HIM HERE

State Department Figuring Out a Route for Banker Stensland.

Washington, Sept. 6.—It is now said at the state department that there probably will be no difficulty in fetching Banker Stensland away from Morocco on any merchant vessel providing the ship does not touch at a French port. There is no provision in the existing extradition treaty between America and France for the surrender of persons guilty of embezzlement, the technical offense charged against Stensland. If Stensland, therefore, got into French jurisdiction he might through counsel secure intervention by the authorities, and it is suggested the French officials might feel obliged to move in the matter on its own account to escape liability for a civil suit for damages which might be brought on the ground of illegal imprisonment on French territory. No such difficulty would be met if the fugitive were brought into Gibraltar or to a Spanish or Portuguese port, because their extradition treaties would permit of his surrender to American authorities.

HE WAS FOOLED

Note Left by President Hipple Turns Up at Home.

Philadelphia, Sept. 6.—District Attorney Bell announces that President Hipple of the Real Estate Trust company, before ending his life, had written a brief confession of his misdeeds. On the day President Hipple shot himself, his son, F. Wharton Hipple, found a note in his father's room. It was written in ink on the back of an envelope. It bore no address and was as follows: "Segal got all the money. I was fooled, but have no one to blame but myself." According to Mr. Bell the note implicated no others.

HAD BUT THIRTY CENTS

When He Took His Departure 54 Years Ago But Is Now Worth a Cool $100,000.

Return of John Anderson Will Be Celebrated at Hartford City With a Family Reunion.

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 6.—With 30 cents as his sole possession when he left this city more than half a century ago, John Anderson, seventy-two years of age, has returned after having made a fortune of over $100,000. He was believed to be dead, and his return here on a visit will be celebrated in this city tomorrow by a reunion of relatives.

Anderson was left an orphan by the death of his father in 1852. He was adopted by a family named Long, but ran away. For fifty-four years he has been absent, and in all that time his relatives had heard nothing from him. He was believed to be dead until yesterday, when Mrs. John Blake and Will Anderson, both of this city, received a message that their uncle was visiting at Jonesboro. Hartford City relatives are now making preparations for a family reunion and the elder Anderson will be the most honored guest at the gathering.

Anderson lives at Council Bluffs, Ia., and is one of that city's best-known citizens. He owns a farm of more than 800 acres and has reared a family of four sons, all of whom have become well-to-do. Recently he decided to come to Indiana in search of his relatives, and last Saturday he arrived in Marion. There he chanced to meet Attorney Enos Baldwin, who proved to be a distant relative, and through him he succeeded in finding other relatives of his brothers and sisters, who have all died since his leaving here.

DEADLY NIGHTMARE

Fort Branch Woman Succumbs to the Seizure of a Dream.

Fort Branch, Ind., Sept. 6.—Screaming in terror, Mrs. Mary Dilbeck, aged forty-three, wife of Daniel Dilbeck, died in a dream.

Her screams awakened her children, who tried to rouse her from her sleep, but before they could do so or a physician could be summoned the woman died under the influence of the wild phantasm which had seized her.

Physicians say that the strain on her nervous system brought on acute heart failure. Mrs. Dilbeck was a robust woman and retired in apparently good health.

"Nothing to Arbitrate."—Cox.

Cannelton, Ind., Sept. 6.—A meeting was held at the courthouse here, seeking to adjust matters in the Zenor-Cox congressional muddle in this district, but nothing was accomplished. Congressman Zenor was in the city on personal business, and friends of Cox persuaded Mr. Cox to come here from Jasper and talk it over. The conference lasted from 10:30 p. m. till 1 a. m. County Chairman Albert P. Penn presiding. Zenor offered to submit the case to any Democratic ex-judge of the supreme, appellate or circuit court for arbitration, but Mr. Cox refused, saying there was nothing to arbitrate.

Woman Hermit Killed by Train.

Cartersburg, Ind., Sept. 6.—Mrs. Mary Wilson, eighty years old, was instantly killed near here. Mrs. Wilson lived the life of a hermit for more than thirty years, and it is said that no person was inside the woman's home for many years. She was a regular attendant at the Friends' Yearly Meeting and started to walk to Plainfield, thinking the meeting opened yesterday. She was crossing the bridge of the Big Four railway when she was overtaken by a fast freight train and instantly killed.

Didn't Take Her Word.

Madison, Ind., Sept. 6.—Despite the statement made by Miss Kate Faulkner that Albert Whitman had nothing to do with the cremation of her child, he has been arraigned before Squire Hughes of Lancaster township and formally charged with murder. Whitman applied for a change of venue and a preliminary hearing will be had before Squire Elder of Graham township, on the 25th inst. Owing to the illness of Miss Faulkner, her trial has been indefinitely postponed.

Held the Dynamite Too Long.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Sept. 6.—Edward Long, of this city, while at Scott's station, Ky., had his right hand blown to atoms by dynamite. Long and his companions were preparing to explode dynamite in a creek, and Long lighted the fuse attached to a stick of dynamite, and then turned to speak to a friend before tossing the dynamite into the water. While he was still talking the dynamite exploded in his hand. It was five hours before he could secure surgical relief.

"LE TABAC EST L'AMI DE L'HOMME."

French Proverb that Proves Itself True in Rushville

There is a French proverb, "Tobacco is the friend of man," that is more true than the average. Man is the only being that smokes. Monkeys have imitated man in all other ways, even acquiring a fondness for liquors, but they never could be taught smoking. Smoking is a distinctly masculine pleasure, and when man has a good cigar like Wadsworth Bros.' Chicos in his mouth, he is care free and ready for any trouble. Thos. W. Lytle, the local agent for Chicos, says that many of his lawyer customers will not take a difficult case until they have a box of Chicos at hand. From pure enjoyment any lover of a good cigar can be no more perfectly satisfied than with a Wadsworth Bros.' Chico.

Go to Thos. W. Lytle's Drug Store today and select one of these Havana filled cigars. The price, 5c. straight, will not frighten you.

IT'S FUN TO BE WELL DRESSED

RESOLVED
THAT WHEN YOU SEND YOUR CHILDREN TO SCHOOL, GOOD CLOTHES ARE AS ESSENTIAL AS GOOD SCHOOL BOOKS. YOU KNOW THAT A WELL DRESSED CHILD TAKES MUCH MORE INTEREST IN ITS STUDIES. AND THE DEAR TEACHER SHOULD BEGIN THE TERM WITH NEW CLOTHES. GO WHERE YOU GET THE BEST VALUE. THAT'S ARITHMATIC. BUSTER BROWN.

Is not dressing well one of the best lessons your children can learn? How much more interest they will take in their books if they are not bothered by knowing their school mates have on no better clothes than they have. Besides, after life they will get along better if they know how to appear well. Whom do you patronize, the shabby or the well clad? We wish to encourage education therefore we sell our wearables for little student men for very reasonable profits.
